MEETING THE COST AND QUALITY CHALLENGES BY REWARDING QUALITY PERFORMANCE Health insurance plans have long been at the forefront of developing innovative payment arrangements that have promoted population-based health care, improved care for the chronically ill, and emphasized systematic investment in prevention. Many of our members currently are offering financial awards to physicians in the form of increased per-member-per-month payments or non-financial rewards in the form of public recognition, preferential marketing or streamlined administrative procedures. Additionally, some plans are offering consumers reduced co-payments, deductibles, and or premiums in exchange for using providers deemed to be of higher quality, based on specific performance measures. The categories of performance measures most commonly reported include clinical quality, utilization experience efficiency, patient satisfaction, and information technology infrastructure. Common Features of Programs That Reward Quality Performance Based on the experiences of our member companies, we know that programs for rewarding quality performance have a number of common features: Reason for Implementation: To enhance and sustain clinical quality, facilitate excellence across provider networks, and improve and promote patient safety. Role of Clinicians: Nearly all plans indicate that clinicians are actively involved in key aspects of rewarding quality performance programs, including program development, selection of performance measures, and determination of how rewards are linked to provider performance. Emphasis on Specific Measures: In rewarding quality performance programs for physicians and medical groups, achieving clinical quality goals plays the most significant role in the formula for determining financial rewards. In programs for hospitals. . . This item ships from La Vergne, TN. Paperback.
