Chapter 2 Literature Search Methods 2. 1 Literature Review In the first task of this project, a two-phased approach was used to conduct a literature review to determine what is already known about wipe sampling techniques for a target list of analytes. First, a broad search was conducted that explored what general information was available on wipe sampling (i. e. , how different organizations are using wipe sampling). This search did not focus on the specific compounds of interest for this project, but instead focused on what wipe sampling procedures could be found for various government agencies or other groups. Extensive internet searching was used as the primary tool for this phase of the review process. Various government agency websites were also searched using the available search options on that site using keywords such as wipes (s) or wiping and sample (s) . The following government agency websites were included in the search: Drug Enforcement Administration Federal Transit, Administration, Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH), Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, Coast Guard, Consumer Product Safety Commission, U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), U. S. Department of Defense, U. S. Department of Homeland Security, U. S. Department on the Interior, Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry, Federal Aviation Administration, Transportation Security Administration (TSA), Federal Bureau of Investigation, Food and Drug Administration, National Aeronautics and Space Administration,...
