Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from An Address Delivered Before the North Carolina State Agricultural Society: At the Second Annual Fair of the Society, Thursday, October 19th, 1854 Mr. President an Gentlemen, of the North Carolina State Agricultural Society: I congratulate you on the favorable auspices under which we are assembled, and on the stirring and gladdening scene this day exhibited. It is a scene well calculated to awaken emotions of joyous pride for the present, and cheering hopes for the future, in the bosom of every patriotic son of the good Old North State. The promise held out by our last Fair, on this same spot - our then first essay in an untried field - has been more than fulfilled. The seeds of industry, enterprise, and State pride, then sown, happened to fall on fruitful soil; and by a diligent cultivation, have already ripened into a rich and abundant harvest. What spectacle is better calculated to call into active play all the nobler and more generous impulses of our nature, than a scene like this? Whilst in our own country, the elements of political discord are in agitation throughout the borders of other States - whilst on two Continents of the old world, opposing hosts are confronting each other ready for the work of slaughter - here, we meet together as friends and fellow-countrymen, for the purpose of making our common offerings around the altar of Concord, and of celebrating the achievements of the pursuits of peace. A calm survey of this living and moving panorama, is well calculated to superinduce reflections of a moral as well as practical character - to stir up associations connected with our past...
