Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from The Slavery Question: Speech of Hon. C. C. Washburn, of Wisconsin; Delivered in the U. S. House of Representatives, April 26, 1860 Governor Wise should excite sympathy everywhere, where bravery, sincerity, and truth, are regarded. I presume that the German population of Wisconsin participate more or less in that feeling. They are generally opposed to the institution of slavery, and to the extension of slavery. Very many of them act with the Republican party; and I doubt not that they would nearly all do so, were it not that in our State the Democratic party has, to a great extent, persuaded them that they were the real friends of freedom, free soil, and free men, and that the most effectual way to prevent the further extension of slavery was to vote the Democratic ticket. As they learn our language, however, very readily, they soon begin to read for themselves, and, as they do so, generally become Republicans; and, sooner or later, the great mass of Germans will belong to the Republican party. Southern men and slaveholders understand this perfectly well, and hence it is that they look with such horror upon the ingress of Germans into the free States. They see that the effect must be to increase the power and influence of free labor, and thus render more speedy and certain the result of that irrepressible conflict, which always has existed and always will exist, between free and slave labor. It is this sentiment, in regard to that class of population, that renders the South nearly unanimous against that much-desired Republican measure, a homestead bill, and which has led a Democratic Senate to substitute...
